

UNIVERSITY of HAWAII®
MĀNOA

Dean, College of Education

The University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa (UH Mānoa) seeks an experienced and innovative leader to serve as Dean of the College of Education (COE). This position is an exceptional opportunity to shape the future of education excellence at the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa, the State of Hawai‘i and abroad. The College is the primary teacher preparation institution in the State and is committed to its responsibility to prepare educators for classrooms in Hawai‘i and beyond. The COE is committed to excellence in the development of the next generation of teachers, education researchers, and leaders.

The Dean is the chief academic and administrative leader of the College. The Dean provides leadership and vision in strategic planning and implementation of programs and leads College development activities. The successful candidate will be responsible for managing the College's financial resources, facility improvements, and external relations and is expected to provide vision and leadership resulting in significant increases in resource acquisition for the College from private gifts, grants, contracts, and other sources of revenue. As a member of the Mānoa executive team reporting to the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, the Dean will ensure that the mission and goals of the College are aligned with UH Mānoa's and the University of Hawai‘i System's vision and strategic mission. The Dean is expected to judiciously balance the best interests of the College with those of the campus, system and community.

The Dean manages an annual budget of approximately $36 million in state, federal and extramural funds, and represents the activities of the College to the wider university, alumni, industry, and donors as well as to Hawai‘i and broader communities. There are approximately 1,865 UH Mānoa students who are majoring in programs within COE. These students comprise of 970 undergraduate and 895 graduate students. The College offers three undergraduate degrees, two post-baccalaureate certificates, five graduate certificates, nine master's degree and nine doctoral specializations and awards over 700 degrees annually. The College has approximately 185 faculty, 105 support staff and 27 graduate assistants staffing eight academic departments: Curriculum Studies, Educational Administration, Educational Foundations, Educational Psychology, Institute for Teacher Education, Kinesiology and Rehabilitation Science, Learning Design and Technology, and Special Education; and two research units: Center on Disability Studies and Curriculum Research & Development Group. The COE values learning, discovery, and engagement in formal and informal settings and strives for excellence in all its endeavors. (For more information about the College and degrees offered, please go to <https://coe.hawaii.edu>).

As a university striving to foster a Hawaiian place of learning, UH Mānoa is the flagship campus of the University of Hawai‘i System and one of a select number of campuses nation-wide recognized as a Land-Grant, Sea-Grant, Space-Grant, and Sun-Grant university. A comprehensive research university, UHM has notably broad and deep strengths in research, teaching, and community outreach related to the Asia Pacific region, enriched by its diverse, multicultural setting in Hawai‘i and location in the Pacific with proximity to Asia. As such it combines strong service to the State of Hawai‘i with prominent engagement as a national and international leader in higher education.
