Acceptance Rate

The percentage of applicants to a program or institution who are offered admission; also called the admit rate.

Accreditation

The process by which an institution’s academic programs are reviewed by external agencies that evaluate the institution’s ability to deliver the education it promises. Regional accreditation for UH Mānoa comes from Western Association of Schools and Colleges Accreditation (WASC). The professional schools and various other programs are accredited by their separate professional groups. Click here for a list of accredited programs at UH Mānoa.

Admitted Student

Applicant who is offered admission to a degree-granting program at an institution (Common Data Set).
Reports

MIRO serves as University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa’s primary contact for most national and international rankings and publishers. MIRO offers the Common Data Set and a list of external surveys we participate in. In addition, MIRO researchers are engaged in various research and analysis briefs that focus on key issues at the university. For questions about published reports and analysis briefs, or to reach the survey contact within our office, please e-mail miro@hawaii.edu for assistance.

Rankings

UH Mānoa is ranked by a variety of organizations that each develops its own methodology. MIRO collects information of how Mānoa is ranked internationally and nationally, as well as rankings about colleges or programs. Because there is no one ranking that can accurately and thoroughly describes Mānoa or its programs, the different perspectives reflected by these rankings help to draw a picture of the excellence of the university. For questions about ranking methodologies, please contact the organizations that publish the rankings directly. To provide information about new rankings, please e-mail miro@hawaii.edu.

The University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa is ranked by the following international and national ranking organizations:

- Academic Ranking of World Universities
- QS World University Ranking
- U-Multirank
- U.S. News
Surveys

Mānoa Institutional Research Office administers surveys (such as NSSE and FSSE) or archives surveys conducted by other Mānoa offices (such as CIRP and Leaver’s Study). These survey activities are part of the university’s commitment to institutional effectiveness and improvement.
