

English Department MA Curriculum Map

Adopted 2010 - 2011

COURSES	Foundational knowledge of the theories and methods of two concentrations within English	Ability to account for continuing relevance of earlier cultural formations and literary and rhetorical practices	Awareness of the contributions of Oceanic and/or Asian cultures to the formation of the field of English Studies in the 21 st Century	Understanding of advanced research methods and/or creative techniques	Written and oral ability to place one's own creative and/or scholarly work within broader artistic and/or critical conversations	Independent research (using primary and secondary sources) and/or creative skills
English 625 B, C, D, E	I & R			I & R	I & R	I & R
Pre-1700/pre-1900 course requirement		I & R		I & R	I & R	I & R
Asia/Pacific course requirement			I & R	I & R	I & R	I & R
ENG course electives	I & R	I & R	I & R	I & R	I & R	I & R
Thesis Plan A (A)				M	M	M
Project Plan B (A)				M	M	M

- I (Introduced), R (Reinforced), M (Mastery), A (point of assessment)