EDITORIAL
THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT
(By K. D. PARK)

Christmas has come, the season of universal goodwill. There is something intangible, indefinable about it that makes men of all races join hands in fellowship for once. We seem to forget, or if temporarily, all hard feelings. What we thought yesterday an unredorable offense appears today in a little different light. We come to the realization that it was not so bad after all.

And we feel in our hearts gushes of new emotion. The desire to please becomes stronger than ever before. We are and are pleased. We live in a land of peace and good will.

If at all, we, at least, have a vague sense of oneness of mankind. At this time of transient enlightenment, for transient it seems to many, we no longer shrug at the idea of world brotherhood. We seem to see some sense in it after all. And we hope, hope that we shall live to see it realized.

The main speaker of the evening was Henry Lam, President, Relief Work, who, through force of education, held the audience attention for the event. He related an interesting story of the meeting. The people were all, of course, present and songs were sung and the visitation started.
