The American Association of University Women at UH Mānoa (AAUW-UHM) is and will continue to be active for the 2020-21 academic school year.

The mission of our RIO is to promote the values of AAUW on the UHM campus and in the community; we are working towards equality in society by providing the tools necessary for women to gain economic security, to pursue their education, and advocate for women's rights.

To become a member, please email aauw.uhmanoa@gmail.com expressing your interest. We will ask follow up questions at that time.

In order to have an active-status in our RIO, we ask that you attend at least one event every semester.

We have no membership fees. Our RIO is open to everyone!
UPCOMING EVENTS

Virtual Movie Night: Whale Rider
AAUW at UH Mānoa
Sponsored by the UH Mānoa Office of Civic and Community Engagement

April 1, 2021 6:00-8:00 PM HST
Join AAUW at UHM, in partnership with the Peace Corps, AmeriCorps, and the UH Library for a virtual screening of Whale Rider. Optional movie kits are available for pickup.

RSVP HERE

Virtual Book Discussion: The Woman Behind the New Deal— the Life & Legacy of Frances Perkins
AAUW Honolulu Branch

April 13, 2021 5:30-7:30 PM HST
Join AAUW Honolulu’s Book Discussion Group to learn more about Frances Perkins, an amazing woman who served on President Roosevelt’s Cabinet.

LEARN MORE HERE

Antiracist Parenting 301: Book Read Aloud — Continuing the Journey to Becoming an Antiracist Parent
AAUW at UH Mānoa
Sponsored by the UH Mānoa Office of Civic and Community Engagement

April 21, 2021 | 4:00-5:00 PM HST
In partnership with Student Parents at Mānoa, Read To Me International, & After Schooling Better
This third and final virtual workshop in AAUW at UHM’s Antiracist Parenting Series will include a read aloud activity of Skin Again, a race conscious children’s book by author bell hooks. Attendees will receive a FREE race-conscious book for their family, while supplies last.

RSVP HERE

Skin Again by bell hooks
Illustrated by Chris Riddick
UPCOMING EVENT FLYERS

Whale Rider Movie Night

Thursday, April 1
6:00 - 8:00 PM
Zoom Streaming

*Movie kits will be available for pickup at QLC 209

RSVP Here
UPCOMING EVENT FLYERS

UNIVERSITY OF HAWAI‘I AT MĀNOA
Civic and Community Engagement

CONTINUING THE JOURNEY TO BECOMING AN ANTIRACIST PARENT

Antiracist Parenting 301
Book Read Aloud

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21
TIME: 4:00PM - 5:00PM HST

RSVP HERE

SPECIAL GIFT*:
CHOOSE A RACE CONSCIOUS BOOK TO READ WITH YOUR KID(S)
*WHILE SUPPLIES LAST AND FUNDED BY UHM SEED IDEAS GRANT

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH:

AAUW
empowering women since 1916

SPAM
STUDENT PARENTS AT MANOA

after schooling better

ReadToMe INTERNATIONAL
AAUW Honolulu was founded in 1905 as the College Club. Created to promote “the higher ideals of education among women” it became an official branch of the American Association of University Women in 1922. Since its founding, AAUW members have examined and taken positions on the fundamental issues of the day – educational, social, economic, and political.

Find AAUW Honolulu Online

Website: aauwhonolulu.org
Email: info@aauwhonolulu.org

AAUW Honolulu Career and Leadership Development Grant

Learn how to apply here

Apply by April 15, 2021

AAUW Honolulu offers multiple grants up to $4,000 each for working women seeking to enhance and improve their careers. Women who are employed, recently employed, or are current graduate students are eligible to apply. Applicants must be living in the state of Hawai‘i.

Girls Talk Back

Presented by Women’s Fund of Hawai‘i, AAUW Honolulu, & Ceeds of Peace

Apply here by April 30, 2021

The Girls Talk Back program is for girls in Hawai‘i ages 14-18 who have aspirations to build peace, organize community, fight injustice, take a stand, and change the world. The free Summer 2021 program will consist of two VIRTUAL cohorts, each running Tuesday through Friday from 10am-noon over the course of four weeks.

Cohort 1: June 1, 2021 - June 25, 2021
Cohort 2: June 29, 2021 - July 23, 2021

Tweet Coleman Aviation Scholarship

Learn how to apply here

Apply by May 1, 2021

Eligibility: Residency in Hawaii and seeking FAA Pilot Certificate. Have a graduate or undergraduate degree or be studying at an accredited college or university.
About: Tweet Coleman made history as part of the first all-female flight crew to fly a Boeing 727. She has graciously endowed AAUW Honolulu with a yearly scholarship for women seeking to earn an FAA Pilot Certificate.
APRIL IS SEXUAL ASSAULT AWARENESS MONTH

In recognition and support of Sexual Assault Awareness Month, we’ve highlighted resources available through PAU Violence, a University of Hawai‘i program dedicated to the prevention of gender based violence on UH campuses. PAU Violence is supported by the Hawai‘i State Department of Health, Maternal and Child Health Branch and assisted by the Women’s Center at UH Mānoa.

SAAM WEBINAR SERIES: EVERY WEDNESDAY IN APRIL 1:30-2:30 PM HST

Preventing Sexual Grooming — 4/7
Gain an understanding of the grooming stages of sexual victimization, and learn what to look for. Talk with two therapists from the Sex Abuse Treatment Center on what you can do to protect against it.

Alcohol-Facilitated Sexual Assault — 4/14
Includes a viewing of the Hawai‘i Coalition Against Sexual Assault film, Shots, and a discussion on the intersectionality of alcohol and sexual assault. Offers important protective information for young adults and beyond.

The Sexual Assault Response Team — 4/21
Includes a viewing of a film on Hawai‘i’s Sexual Assault Response Team, followed by a live panel discussion with the O‘ahu team. Learn about the statewide system of care available for survivors of sexual violence (and their families).

The HI Way [r e s p e c t] Episode — 4/28
Includes a viewing of the “Respect” episode (age-appropriate for keiki to kupuna) of the Honolulu Theatre for Youth’s The HI Way series, followed by a panel discussion on the development of its online safety segment.

PAU: DONE, FINISH, END
P: Prevention  A: Awareness  U: Understanding

PAU VIOLENCE MISSION STATEMENT:
to inspire, educate, and empower students and campus communities to build safe living-learning environments, end interpersonal violence, and encourage holistic well-being in ways that are supportive, collaborative, student-centered, and strengths-based.

AVAILABLE SERVICES:
All appointments will be conducted via telephone or online due to COVID-19.

Email: uhmpau@hawaii.edu
Phone: 808-956-4392

LINKS
- PAU Violence Website
- PAU Violence Instagram
- National Sexual Violence Resource Center Website (NSVRC)
On September 29th, 2020 I received an email from the UH Mānoa Department of Public Safety informing me that there had been a sexual assault on my college campus. The assault took place in a residence hall across from where I lived during my freshman year.

I was angry when I read the email. I am angry; 20% of female college students will experience sexual assault—one in every five.

I wish that I was more surprised by this high statistic, but unfortunately, it is a reality that too many of us have accepted. Studies show that the beginning of the first two semesters of college are the times when students are at the highest risk of being sexually assaulted, something that I, unfortunately, can attest to. Clearly, we have a problem. Especially considering that the majority of cases go unreported.

The assault on September 29th was in the minority of cases that were reported to the Honolulu Police Department and I hope that appropriate action was taken. But, if you consider the trauma associated with being sexually assaulted, what really is “appropriate action”? Last year, I read Chanel Miller’s memoir Know My Name and she, among others, reveals how challenging the process of pressing charges can be and how inadequate— and thus not appropriate—the outcomes frequently are. To make matters worse, the Department of Education (Betsy DeVos) under the Trump Administration, passed new rules that allowed for the cross-examination not only of the accused but also of the person reporting the sexual assault. Furthermore, the definition of sexual harassment and the evidence needed to qualify as sexual harassment was narrowed. Both of these changes favor the perpetrators and make a challenging process even harder for the survivors of sexual assault and harassment.
In colleges, sexual assault and harassment—among other issues—falls under Title IX which prohibits discrimination based on gender. As an intern for the American Association of University Women (AAUW) Honolulu, I want to help spread awareness and support for better Title IX guidelines.

AAUW’s three pillars are economic security, education, and advocacy. Attaining economic security is difficult without an education, and getting an education is especially challenging when also battling the trauma associated with sexual assault or gender-based discrimination. Women are disproportionately affected by this issue and therefore working on Title IX issues is a way for me to engage others in advocating for women’s rights in college. Furthermore, other rules under Title IX are relevant to ensuring equal treatment of women in STEM, for example, which is also close to my heart as a woman in the sciences (watch Picture a Scientist, for more information on the discriminatory experiences faced by women in STEM and how they relate to Title IX).

With a new president in office, it is heartening that there is expected to be a rollback on the Title IX rules put in place by Betsy DeVos. It is imperative that we hold the Biden-Harris administration accountable for making these changes. From my knowledge as a student at UH Mānoa, I further propose that sexual assault awareness curriculum and training should not only be mandated for employees but everyone. It should also be reviewed and designed in association with students, to make it more effective, because it is currently viewed as an inconvenient but necessary task to check off the list. Will these proposed changes solve all of the problems? No. Therefore, and most importantly, we need to continue the fight to change the rape culture in which we live. To address the harmful mindset that has infected our society, it is necessary for us to better educate the public. Creating a consent culture should begin much younger and various age-appropriate curricula should be implemented in schools. Additional steps to address some of the root causes of rape culture should be more widely discussed and put into action in all settings (UN Women’s list of 16 Ways You Can Stand Against Rape Culture is a good place for us to start looking). The work of AAUW is a progressive step in the right direction. We must continue to fight for new ways of spreading awareness, uplifting women, educating men, and increasing the extent of our activism.

SOURCES
CELEBRATE EVERY DAY LIKE IT’S EARTH DAY

Earth Day is coming up on Thursday, April 22. Here are some ideas from the AAUW-UHM team for what to watch, read, and do to show appreciation and care for the planet we all call home.

TO CHECK OUT

Sustainable brands: SandCloud & Patagonia

Campus resources: UH Mānoa Institute for Sustainability and Resilience, Mālama I Nā Ahupua’a serving learning and sustainability initiative

Organizations: Sustainable Coastlines Hawai`i, Hawai`i Conservation Alliance, Blue Planet Foundation, the Monterey Bay Aquarium Seafood Watch

TO WATCH

I Am Greta – a Hulu original documentary about teen climate activist Greta Thunberg (2020)

A Life on Our Planet – Biographical documentary starring David Attenborough (2020)

Before The Flood – National Geographic, featuring Leonardo DiCaprio (2016)

TO DO

✔ Beach Clean-Up: When out at the beach, clean up any trash/plastics that you may see while in the ocean or laying on the shore. Grabbing little bits of trash here and there can make all of the difference.

Or sign up for a beach cleanup event with Sustainable Coastlines Hawai’i
MAKE EVERY DAY
EARTH DAY

TO DO

✔ Bring Your Own Stuff (BYOS): To eliminate the excess waste, consider bringing your own utensils and reusable straws when eating out.

✔ Protect Our Reefs While Protecting Your Skin: When spending a day out in the ocean, protect your skin and Hawai‘i’s coral reefs by wearing reef-safe sunscreen. Reef-safe sunscreen helps to keep Hawai‘i’s coral safe and undamaged from harsh chemicals.

✔ Give Back to the 'Āina: Whether you are getting your hands and feet dirty in the lo‘i (taro farm), or diving in the kai (ocean), giving back to the 'āina is a simple way to celebrate Earth Day everyday in Hawai‘i. If you’re looking to buy some local plants, check out Koolau Farmers.

✔ Don’t Waste Water: Check out these 10 tips from American Rivers for saving water at home.

✔ Go Meatless for a Day: To counter the environmental impacts of the meat industry, try incorporating more vegetarian meals into your diet. The Food Network has a list of 50 All-Time Best Vegetarian Recipes That Won’t Break the Bank.

✔ Attend an Earth Day event, in person or virtually:
  • Earth Day at Aloha Home Market — Sunday, April 18, 2021 | 9:00 am - 2:00 pm | Kailua
  • Waimea Valley’s 2021 Earth Day Celebration — Free to attend | Saturday, April 24, 2021 | 8:30 am - 2:00 pm
  • 2021 Honolulu Earth Day Challenge Run/Walk — The Virtual Run Challenge
Although tens of millions of COVID-19 vaccine doses such as Pfizer and Moderna have been rolled out since mid-December 2020 and the Johnson & Johnson vaccine was also approved for use by the Food and Drug Administration in the United States in February 2021, millions of Americans and people around the world are still in desperate need to get in line for the shots. Due to limited supplies of vaccines, the US government as advised by the Center for Disease Control had to prioritize populations that are most at risk of contracting the COVID-19 virus such as medical professionals, other frontline workers, and the elderly. Only in the beginning of March 2021 did the state and federal government start to prioritize other population groups who are in the essential work force—including education.

As someone in education who has the luxury of working from home during this global pandemic, my colleagues and I recognize our privilege in being included in the priority group for this scarce and precious vaccine. This privilege also accounts for my employer, University of Hawaii – making the appointment arrangement for all employees and students to get vaccines without having to join the online queue or to call the vaccination site. Not least, both my work supervisor and my department chair offered to help us register for the vaccine appointment in case we run into any issues. With this generous arrangement from the University of Hawaii – we got the shots of hope and relief in our arms. Although we are now less at risk from contracting or getting sick with COVID-19, there is no study that confirms the vaccine prevents us from being an asymptomatic carrier. Thus, we just want to share a reminder to vaccinated people that we must continue to practice all the safety guidelines including wearing a mask, washing our hands, and social distancing as much as we can until we beat this virus. With over 100 million doses of vaccine already administered in the US in the first quarter of 2021 and President Biden’s announcement of full supply of vaccines by May 1, we are hopeful that life will slowly return to normalcy towards the end of the year.
SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SCHOLARSHIP</th>
<th>DETAILS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| 2021 Fulbright-Hays Doctoral Dissertation Research Abroad Fellowship | Deadline: April 5, 2021
Eligibility: Must be U.S. citizens, US permanent residents or US nationals; and be a graduate student in the US.
About: The Fulbright-Hays Doctoral Dissertation Research Abroad (DDRA) Fellowship Program provides opportunities for doctoral candidates to engage in full-time dissertation research abroad in modern foreign languages and area studies. The program is designed to deepen research knowledge and increase the study of modern foreign languages, cultural engagement, and area studies not generally included in U.S. curricula.
More information can be found here: https://www2.ed.gov/programs/iegpsddrap/eligibility.html |
| The Christine Mirzayan Science and Technology Policy Graduate Fellowship Program | Deadline: April 30, 2021
Eligibility: Graduate Students in STEM
About: The Mirzayan Fellowship Program is a full-time hands-on training and educational program spanning 12 weeks at the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine learning about science and technology policy and the role that scientists and engineers play in advising the nation. The Mirzayan Fellowship offers a unique opportunity to obtain essential skills and knowledge needed to work in science policy at the federal, state, or local level. Potential applications must have completed their graduate studies within the last five years.
More information can be found here: https://mirzayanfellow.nas.edu/Default.asp |
| Rotary Peace Fellowship 2022                 | Deadline: May 15, 2021
Eligibility: any
About: The Rotary Foundation is now accepting applications for the fully-funded 2022 Rotary Peace Fellowship. Up to 130 peace and development leaders are selected globally every year to earn either a master’s degree or a professional development certificate in peace and conflict studies at one of seven Rotary Peace Centers at leading universities around the world.
Mahalo for supporting AAUW at UH Mānoa!

If you have any questions or suggestions regarding this newsletter or any of our programs, please feel free to contact us at aauw.uhmanoa@gmail.com