

Lyon Arboretum 2019 Symposium

Celebrating 101 Years of Research

Exploring Diversity in our Backyard

Nā Maka O Ka 'Āina A Me Ke Kai

Join us October 18th, 2019 from 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM for our second annual symposium showcasing undergraduate and graduate research conducted at the Arboretum and throughout the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa. The focus this year will be exploring the bounty of diversity found in our archipelago. We welcome both oral and poster presentations that investigate the myriad relationships between organisms and their environment, examine evolution through understanding our native species' biogeography and systematics, or celebrate the culture of our islands.

This symposium will take place on the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa campus at the Campus Center Ballroom.

Abstract submission opens on August 12th and closes on September 15th. Please submit your abstracts here: <https://tinyurl.com/LyonSymposium>
